The Trustees are pleased to present their report together with the financial statements of the charity for the year ended 31 December 2014. Legal and administrative information set out earlier in this document forms part of this report.

The financial statements comply with current statutory requirements, the Memorandum and Articles of Association and the Statement of Recommended Practice – Accounting and Reporting by Charities (revised 2005).

Organisation

The Directors of the company are also charity trustees for the purposes of charity law and under the company's Articles are known as members of the Board of Trustees. Under the requirements of the Memorandum and Articles of Association, the members of the Board of Trustees are elected to serve for a period of three years after which they must be re-elected at the next Annual General Meeting.

John Richards stood down as Chairperson at the end of 2013. The trustees record their thanks for the commitment and wisdom with which he has helped to steer the direction of HART over the last three years. We are delighted that he remains as a member of the board.

A broad skill set is represented on the Board of Trustees, including experts in education, finance and business, medical practice and law. This board has been formulated in order to provide the professional and technical expertise required to ensure accountability for and efficiency in HART's work. Trustees are encouraged to visit at least one of the HART humanitarian programmes abroad.

We believe assessing the quality of the work being undertaken with HART funding, the competence of local partners, and the financial integrity of the programmes are the most appropriate ways for Trustees to ensure the accountability of HART's work.

Fulfilment of the Charity Commission guidelines on Public Benefit

We have referred to the Charity Commission's general guidance on public benefit when reviewing our aims and objectives and planning our future activities. In particular, we consider how our planned activities will contribute to the aims and objectives of the charity.

Through its advocacy work HART freely provides a voice in the international arena for people who are, or who have recently been, suffering oppression and persecution, who are often not being served by major aid organisations and who are largely 'off the agenda' of the international media. HART's reports are made widely available to the UK Government and Parliament, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, national and international media, parliamentarians in Australia through HART-Australasia, the US Congress through HART-US, other governmental and non-governmental organisations and a broad cross-section of the public, particularly through faith groups, schools and universities.

The public can freely access HART's information via our website and publications. HART encourages active participation in our advocacy and humanitarian work, facilitated in particular through our growing intern and volunteer programmes.

The key charitable aims of HART are:

- To support community-led initiatives relating to healthcare, education, women's empowerment, training, malnutrition and emergency relief, and which facilitate rehabilitation and sustainable development;
- To reach communities in isolated, underreported and marginalised areas;
- To tackle the root causes of poverty, exclusion and human rights abuses through targeted advocacy work.

Review of the year

2014 has been a year of significant progress for HART in terms of the support and funding we are able to offer to our partners. It has also been an encouraging year as we have seen growing public support for our work, both in much needed donations and in the contribution of time, skills, ideas and enthusiasm from an active network of volunteers and supporters. Above all, we have witnessed the continuing achievements of our partners around the world.

We are profoundly grateful to all supporters who provide funds for our valiant partners on frontlines of faith and freedom in very challenging conditions in many parts of the world. We have been delighted to receive significant funding to enable us to continue, and increase, our support for many of them. For example:

- The Isle of Man Overseas Aid Commission has continued to fund a 3-year grant for the visionary programme tackling malnutrition in Timor Leste. They have also provided funding used in 2014 for emergency relief in the Nuba Mountains and Blue Nile, where as a result of systematic persecution by the Government of Sudan, people are suffering aerial bombardment and hunger-related illness. The Government of Sudan has blocked international humanitarian assistance to the region as part of its de facto genocidal campaign against the local people; HART's aid, delivered by local partners, is therefore of even greater significance.

- Jersey and Guernsey Overseas Aid Commissions have continued their generous support for Dr Maung Taing San ('Dr. SaSa') for his programme of live-saving education of Community Health Workers in remote hill tribe regions of Burma's Chin State where, according to our medical colleague who specialises in tropical medicine, they will be enabled to save the lives of eight out of ten people who would otherwise have died.
- Trusthouse Charitable Foundation continued to entrust HART with half of their budget allocated for overseas funding, which helped us to maintain our financial support for very significant programmes including the work of SWAN (Shan Women's Action Network), Doh Say's work with medical backpack teams amongst the Karenni in Burma, the Rehabilitation Centre in Nagorno Karabakh, emergency relief in the Nuba Mountains and Blue Nile, work with the Devadasi in India and Bishop Moses Deng's work in Bahr-El-Ghazal, one of the most devastated states in South Sudan.
- We also wish to thank Hiscox plc., Word Alive and the Vardy Foundation, as well as other generous supporters too numerous to identify here, but without whose generosity we could not continue to support our partners with their essential work for their communities in such need in so many complex and challenging situations.

Thanks to our partners, volunteers, supporters and staff, 2014 saw diverse activities and achievements in both aid and advocacy.

Individual fundraising efforts include:

In March, Rob Chidley, Hayk Petrosyan and Manuk Asatryan completed a Skydive raising £1070. HART intern Erika Nordblad ran the Luxembourg half marathon, raising funds for PAORINHER in northern Uganda. Andy Thomson undertook a 124 mile cycle ride across the North and South Downs.

In 2014, we benefited from the contributions of 10 long-term interns and a host of volunteers, who undertook research, wrote blogs, managed events and campaigns, took the stories of our partners to their schools, universities, churches and other institutions, and provided support in almost every aspect of HART's work.

Throughout the year, Caroline Cox and other members of the HART team spoke in a variety of forums about our partners and their achievements in challenging situations. These included contributions to questions, debates and meetings in Parliament, as well as speaking at conferences, schools, universities and churches, and running events including film screenings, talks, campaigns and art exhibitions. We also continued to engage with the media, with articles in major publications, writing letters to newspapers editors and joining with other organisations to project a strong, unified voice on key human rights issues.

The HART Scholarship Competition was rebranded to become the HART Prize for Human Rights, receiving 163 entries. It engaged university, college and school students with human rights issues and with HART's work. We were delighted by the entries we received, which demonstrated great talent and widespread passion for human rights amongst young people, and a remarkable depth of engagement with complex issues.

Towards the end of 2014, we launched the HART Ambassadors Programme, a new initiative aiming to engage more people with our work and to offer a structured volunteering opportunity, bridging the gap between ad hoc volunteering and long-term internships.

The scale and diversity of work which HART achieves would not be possible without our partners and supporters, who undertake exceptional work and demonstrate immense vision, multiplying our small contributions many times over. Seeing our partners and their projects go from strength to strength is the greatest encouragement to our work. Being able to work with them and for them is an immense privilege to all involved – staff, trustees and volunteers alike.

Future developments

The charity plans to continue the activities outlined above in the forthcoming years subject to satisfactory funding arrangements.

Investment policy

Under the memorandum and articles of association, the charity has the power to make any investments that the Trustees see fit.

Independent auditors' report to the members of Humanitarian Aid Relief Trust

Reserves policy

The Trustees aim to maintain free reserves in unrestricted funds at a level which equates to approximately four months of unrestricted charitable expenditure. The Trustees consider that this level will provide contingency funds and to ensure that there will be sufficient funds available to cover support and governance costs.

Risk management

A risk management programme is in place and, where appropriate, systems or procedures are established to mitigate any risks the charity might face. These procedures, along with the Risk Register, are regularly reviewed to ensure that they continue to meet the needs of the charity.

Trustees' responsibilities in relation to the financial statements

The directors (being trustees of the charitable company) are responsible for preparing the Annual Report and the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice).

Company law requires the Trustees to prepare financial statements for each financial year, which give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the company and of the income and expenditure of the charitable company for that period. In preparing those financial statements, the directors are required to:

- Select suitable accounting policies and then apply them consistently.
- Observe the methods and principles in the Charities Statement of Recommended Practice.
- Make judgments and estimates that are reasonable and prudent.
- State whether applicable UK Accounting Standards have been followed, subject to any material departures disclosed and explained in the financial statements.
- Prepare the financial statements on the going concern basis unless it is inappropriate to presume that the charitable company will continue its operations.

The Trustees are responsible for keeping proper accounting records, which disclose with reasonable accuracy at any time the financial position of the charitable company and enable them to ensure that the financial statements comply with the Companies Act 2006. They are also responsible for safeguarding the assets of the company and hence for taking reasonable steps for the prevention and detection of fraud and other irregularities. The Trustees are responsible for the maintenance and integrity of the corporate and financial information included on the charitable company's website. Legislation in the United Kingdom governing the preparation and dissemination of financial statements may differ from legislation in other jurisdictions.

Disclosure of information to auditors

To the best knowledge and belief of the Trustees, there is no relevant information that the charity's auditors are not aware of, and the Trustees have taken all steps necessary to ensure the Trustees are aware of any relevant information.

Auditors

A resolution will be proposed at the Annual General Meeting that Jacob Cavenagh & Skeet be re-appointed auditors to the charity.

Trustee

29th July 2015

We have audited the financial statements of Humanitarian Aid Relief Trust for the year ended 31 December 2014 which are set out on pages 6 to 13. The financial framework that has been applied in their preparation is applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice).

This report is made solely to the charitable company's members, as a body, in accordance with Chapter 3 of Part 16 of the Companies Act 2006. Our audit work has been undertaken so that we might state to the charitable company's members those matters we are required to state to them in an auditor's report and for no other purpose. To the fullest extent permitted by law, we do not accept or assume responsibility to anyone other than the charitable company and its members as a body, for our audit work, for this report, or for the opinions we have formed.

Respective responsibilities of trustees and auditor

As explained more fully in the Statement of Trustees' Responsibilities, the company's trustees (who are also the directors for the purposes of company law) are responsible for the preparation of the financial statements and for being satisfied that they give a true and fair view.

Our responsibility is to audit and express an opinion on the financial statements in accordance with applicable law and International Standards on Auditing (UK & Ireland). Those standards require us to comply with the Auditing Practices Board's (APB's) Ethical Standards for Auditors, including 'APB Ethical Standard – Provisions Available for Small Entities (Revised)', in the circumstances set out in note 16 to the financial statements.

Scope of the audit of the financial statements

An audit involves obtaining evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements sufficient to give reasonable assurance that the financial statements are free from material misstatement, whether caused by fraud or error. This includes an assessment of: whether the accounting policies are appropriate to the charitable company's circumstances and have been consistently applied and adequately disclosed; the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by the trustees; and the overall presentation of the financial statements. In addition, we read all the financial and non-financial information in the Report of the Trustees to identify material inconsistencies with the audited financial statements and to identify any information that is apparently materially incorrect based on, or materially inconsistent with, the knowledge acquired by us in the course of performing the audit. If we become aware of any apparent material misstatements or inconsistencies we consider the implications for our report.

Opinion on financial statements

In our opinion the financial statements:

- give a true and fair view of the state of the charitable company's affairs as at 31 December 2014 and of its incoming resources and application of resources, including its income and expenditure, for the year then ended;
- have been properly prepared in accordance with United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice; and
- have been prepared in accordance with the requirements of the Companies Act 2006.

Opinion on other matter prescribed by the Companies Act 2006

In our opinion the information given in the report of the trustees for the financial year for which the financial statements are prepared is consistent with the financial statements.

Matters on which we are required to report by exception

We have nothing to report in respect of the following matters where the Companies Act 2006 requires us to report to you if, in our opinion;

- adequate accounting records have not been kept or returns adequate for our audit have not been received from branches not visited by us; or
- the financial statements are not in agreement with the accounting records and returns; or
- certain disclosures of trustees' remuneration specified by law are not made; or
- we have not received all the information and explanations we require for our audit; or
- the Trustees were not entitled to prepare the financial statements in accordance with the small companies regime.
